
RASCHKE VON KNOBELSDORFF HEISER wins lawyer and tax advisor for the tax law practice

02. May 2017

The well-known Hamburg based law firm RASCHKE VON KNOBELSDORFF HEISER (RKH) has won lawyer and tax advisor Morten Dibbert for its tax law practice. Before joining RKH, Morten Dibbert worked for more than four years for Germany's leading tax law firm FLICK GOCKE SCHAUMBURG in Bonn and Hamburg.

Morten Dibbert has his advisory focus on corporate tax law and M&A. He mainly advised German groups, family-owned companies and international investors on reorganizations and domestic as well as cross-border transactions. Morten Dibbert also worked for several months in the tax department of Bilfinger SE in Mannheim during a secondment in 2016.

Together with Prof. Dr. Christian Möller Morten Dibbert will be responsible for the development of the tax law practice within RKH. Christian Möller will still support transaction tax and property tax mandates besides his lectureship at the Hochschule Hannover. Due to the addition of Morten Dibbert, RKH will intensify its focus on the tax planning of investments and financing measures as well the tax structuring and tax due diligence. Further, the independent – non transaction-related – tax advice (e.g. wealth succession, support in tax audits or court procedures) shall be developed.

"The tax optimization of legal structures as well as the identification and resolution of tax risks are already essential parts of our legal transaction advisory. For this reason, we are delighted to be able to strengthen our tax law practice with Morten Dibbert. In the future, we will be able to provide our clients with even more comprehensive tax advice," comments founding partner Dr. Kristian J. Heiser on the personnel reinforcement.
